"Strengthening the human capital of aeronautical companies to meet the challenges of Industry 4.0 transformation"

Website

Sky4.0 aims to help Aeronautical companies from different European countries to meet the challenges of Industry 4.0 by improving the soft skills of their human resources. This will be achieved through building curricula and training modules around specific sets of soft skills development, namely Character-Building Skills, Social Competencies, and Personal Development skills, which will empower the aviation current and future employee to thrive in this ever-growing Industry 4.0 revolution.
